1953 Annual Exhibition of Contemporary American Sculpture,
Watercolors and Drawings

April 9 - May 29

Whitney Museum of American Art
Ten West Eighth Street, New York.

FOREWORD

THIS EXHIBITION of sculpture, watercolors and drawings is one of a series of Annual exhibitions of American contemporary art inaugurated in 1932, and is the counterpart of the exhibition of paintings held in the fall. Both exhibitions are assembled by the same method: the Museum invites the artists to participate and the works shown are selected by members of the staff. By this means of selection the Museum can control the kind of exhibition it wishes to present, giving representation to artists of all schools and emphasizing those tendencies it believes to be the most significant in contemporary American art. If modern art in its many forms predominates, it is because it is unquestionably the leading movement in art today, and has exerted the greatest influence on younger artists to whom the Whitney Museum has always been hospitable.

Instead of awarding prizes, which are often inequitable to the artist and misleading to the public, the Museum acquires works from these Annual exhibitions to add to its permanent collection.

HERMON MORE, Director

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Whitney Museum of American Art wishes to make grateful acknowledgment of the cooperation and assistance of the following art galleries, and to express its thanks to the artists and private collectors who have generously made loans to the exhibition.
